Have You Spotted a Lanternfly?

Have you heard about the spotted lanternfly, the latest invasive insect to be impacting Massachusetts? Dr. Jennifer Forman Orth, an Environmental Biologist at the Mass. Department of Agricultural Resources, will discuss the effects this pest is expected to have on agriculture and natural resources in our state, and will also teach you how to identify it, where it has been found, and what to do if you find this pest.

After Jennifer's presentation, Conservation Department and LLCT Staff will update you on recent and upcoming conservation projects.
